THE SECRETARY GENERALS

UN DAY MESSAGE

The world has changed enormously in thirty years, and the United Nations has changed and developed with it. On its 31st anniversary, the United Nations is an established institution of 145 Member States — three times its original size.

The United Nations' first duty is maintain peace and security in many parts of the world. Its members have brought scores of disputes and conflict situations before it. Those which were settled are mostly forgotten, but some remain actively on the agenda — like the Middle East, Cyprus of the problems of Southern Africa. The United Nations continues the search for solutions on such issues and new disputes as they arise. In several instances, the United Nations peace-keeping role is one of the most important stabilizing elements.

The work of the Organization in economic and social matters goes far beyond the dreams of its founders. It is actively tackling global problems such as food, trade and development, population, environment, human settlements, the law of the sea, and water. It is also engaged in the unprecedented attempt to evolve a new international economic order more responsive to present realities and aspirations, more equitable, and more effective in husbanding the world's resources.

CHIEF OF DEFENCE STAFF VISITS UNFICYP

The Chief of the Canadian Defence Staff, General J A Dextraze CBE, CMM, DSO. CD visited HQ UNFICYP on Tuesday 26th October. He is seen above inspecting a multi national Guard of Honour with its Commander Major D G Leef CD.

At the United Nations all nations can meet on a basis of sovereign equality. It is a unique forum where differences can be discussed, co-operation can replace confrontation, and the future of the world community can be planned.

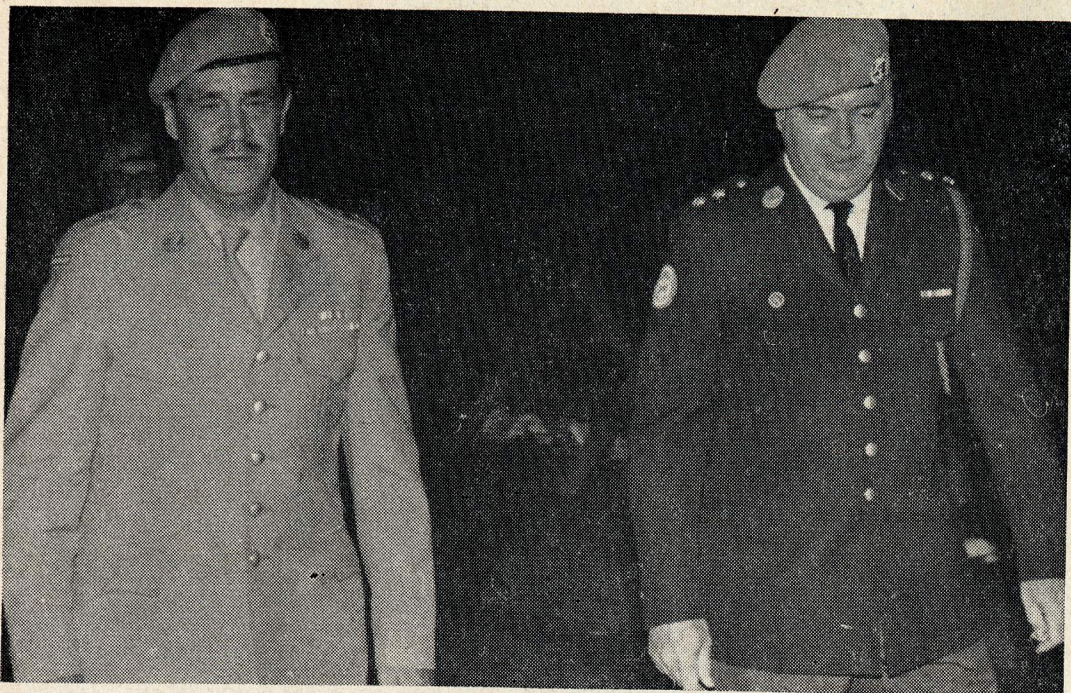

The United Nations has never been faced with so many vital problems as now. We must increase its effectiveness as an institution and its positive influence on the life of the international community. One of the best ways of doing this is through the interest and involvement of people all over the world. It is, after all, primarily their Organization. It is certainly their best hope for the future.

I am confident that more and more people will become aware of the importance of international co-operation through the United Nations, and support its work for peace, justice and progress.

DANISH GENERAL AT WOLSLEY BARRACKS

The Canadian Contingent were recently visited by Major General J Andreassen of The Royal Danish Army. On his arrival he was pictured with Lieutenant Colonel D B Ellis CD as he received a salute from a Guard of Honour.

Søndag d. 24 OKT kom generalmajor J. Andreassen, der er chef for ELK, på besøg hos DANCON. Baggrunden for besøget er, at generalmajoren i begyndelsen af det nye år skal være leder af et FN-seminar med deltagere fra de nordiske lande. Generalen har tidligere opholdt sig på Cypern, idet han var CO/DANCON II.

Gen. Maj J. Andreassen, the Commander of the Eastern Land Command in DENMARK has visited DANCON.

As you see, whiskers are very common at DANCON.

HERE THEY COME - BATTALION 63C

SWEDCON E W S

Here they come — the new Swedish Battalion 63C. The "summer battalion" left Carl Gustav Camp and Goldfish Camp at the end of October and have gone home to Sweden to find snow, ice and darkness.

For the new battalion the Cyprus weather is quite an experience. Who could have dreamt of going to the beach in October?

The new Swedish Commander-in-Chief General Nils Sköld inspected the battalion at Training Camp 14 in Linköping. He said that the battalion was the 26th Swedish Battalion to go to Cyprus, and that about 38,000 Swedes in one way or another had served in the United Nations.

Bataljon 61C har gjort sitt. Bataljon 61C kan åka hem till vintern i Sverige — en vinter som 63C fick en föräning om på den vindpinade kaserngården i Linköping. När bataljonen stod uppställda på Grenadjärvallen för att låta sig inspekteras av den nye arméchefen general Nils Sköld var det många soldater som frös om händerna och länngatade till Cypern. Nu är vi här.

Nedre bilden visar bataljonchefen för 63C överstelöjtnant Ambjörn Bäärnhielm (l.v.) tillsammans med företrädaren Paul G. Stömberg.

3000 HOURS AND STILL FLYING

644 TP VISITOR

Recently Colonel J. Agar, the Colonel in charge of the Royal Signals personnel branch, visited UNFICYP. During his visit he looked round the communications centre and is seen above talking to Sgt W. Johnston, Cpl P. Mulligan and Sgt J.B. Ramsay. He is seen with Yeoman of Signals D.A. Dunbar in the picture on the right.

3000 hours flying represents just over eight years worth of flying service, and for all pilots it is a milestone worthy in every way of celebration. So when Staff Sergeant Nick Ball of the United Nations Flight Army Air Corps landed at the Sioux Base at Nicosia on Tuesday 19th October having flown past the 3000 hours mark the champagne was ready.

The whole flight under its Commander Major D.N. Thorne will was on hand to welcome him back, and to wish him many more hours flying.

Staff Sergeant Ball arrived in UNFICYP on 1st September having come to Cyprus from 653 Squadron AAC at Netheravon. During his service he has flown fixed wing aircraft as well as three different kinds of light helicopters.

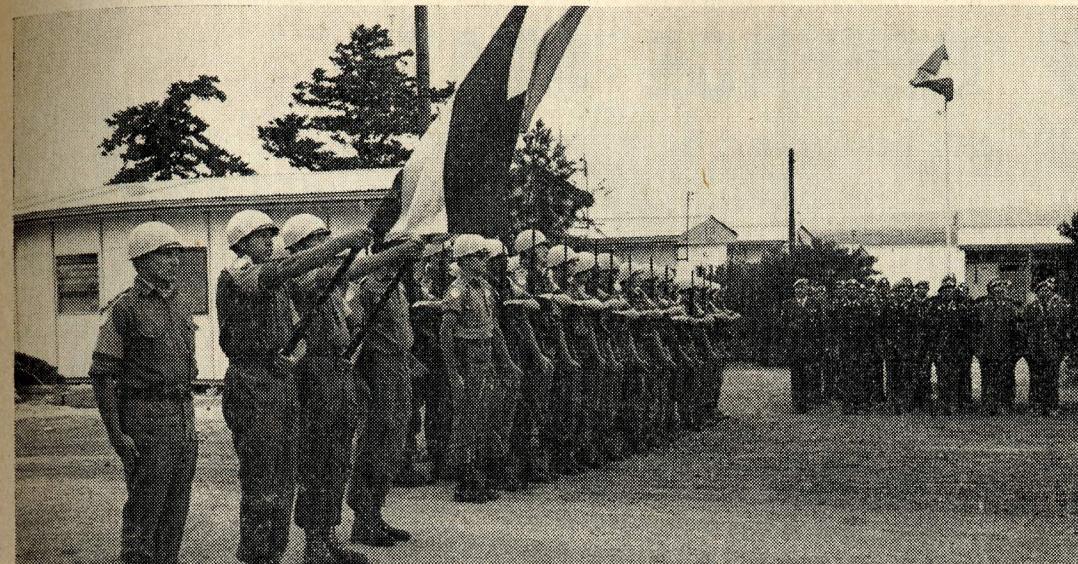

CO OF 15th/19th VISITS B SQUADRON

Another visitor to UNFICYP recently was Lieutenant Colonel R.H.G. McCarthy the Commanding Officer of the 15th/19th The Kings Royal Hussars, who came to visit B Squadron. He is seen above with Major J. Knox, the Squadron Commander just after he arrived in Nicosia.

AUSTRIAN LIBERATION DAY AND MEDAL PARADE

The Force Commander is seen here inspecting the guard of honour. Shortly after that, he presented the UN medal to members of AUSCIVPOL, who also took part in the parade side by side with the AUSCON soldiers.

WUßTEN SIE SCHON?

Dem vielseitigen Wunsch entsprechend, diese Frage in jedem Blue Beret zu stellen, erlauben wir uns heute, unseren 2iC vorzustellen. Major Robert BUSCH, 2iC AUSCON brachte für seine Funktion schon entsprechende Auslandserfahrungen mit: 1959 Spezialausbildung in Amerika (Fort Knox — Armoured School) und UNTSO-Einsatz in Ägypten von 1970 bis 1971. In Österreich ist Mjr Busch seit 1963 Hauptlehrer an der Panzer-Truppschule in Zwölfaxing sowie Experte in der Schießlehre sämtlicher Waffen der Panzertruppe. Als Ausgleich zu so viel "Gepanzertem" liebt Mjr Busch die Gartenarbeit. Böse Zungen behaupten, daß dieses Hobby seine Vorliebe für den Stellungsbau begründet.

This is to introduce our 2iC Maj BUSCH engaged in one of his favourite hobbies: "Gardening". "Soldiers, I have got good news and bad news for you. The bad news first: Today we are filling sandbags. The good news: There's plenty of sand available".

Am 26 Oktober feierte man in unserer Heimat sowie bei unserem Kontingent hier in Zypern gemeinsam mit der AUSCIVPOL zum 21. Mal den Tag unserer endgültigen Freiheit und Unabhängigkeit nach Jahren schwerer Belastungen und Entbehrungen. Vor genau 21 Jahren verließ der letzte alliierte Soldat unser Land, ging die Besetzung Österreichs durch ausländische Streitkräfte zu Ende.

Seit diesem Tag ist Österreich ein neutraler Staat, der sich seiner Aufgaben und Verpflichtungen wohl bewußt ist. Viele bittere Erfahrungen in der Vergangenheit haben uns Österreicher die Notwendigkeit der Erhaltung des Friedens auf der Welt deutlich gemacht und so trägt auch Österreich im Rahmen seiner Möglichkeiten dazu bei, den großen Gedanken der UNO und aller friedliebenden Menschen, zu verwirklichen. Ein Bataillon in Syrien auf den Golanhöhen, ein Bataillon und ein Polizeikontingent auf Zypern, sowie in den vergangenen Jahren Einsätze der österreichischen Soldaten im Rahmen der UNO im Kongo und in Ägypten zeugen von der aktiven Neutralitätspolitik Österreichs.

Einige unserer Kameraden haben in Erfüllung ihrer freiwillig auf sich genommenen Pflichten im Dienste des Friedens ihr Leben gegeben. Ihnen gilt auch heute unser ehrendes Gedenken.

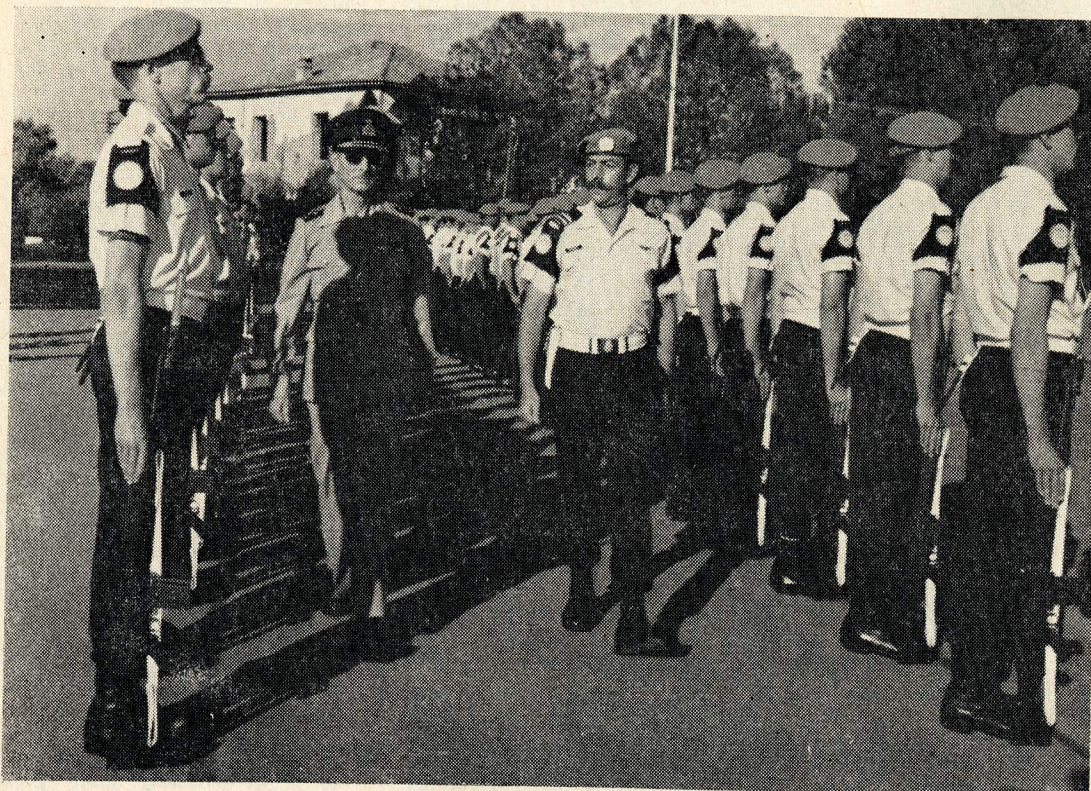

Die Auszeichnung von Soldaten des AUSCON und Polizeibeamten der AUSCIVPOL mit der Medaille "In the Service of Peace" durch den FC LtGen D. Prem Chand PVSM an unserem Nationalfeiertag verlieh dieser Medal Parade einen besonders feierlichen Charakter.

At the official Reception held after the parade the ladies were welcomed in a typical Austrian way with red and white carnations — the national colours.
